Fair Family

Admit it – being involved in the fair business is addictive – and can be tiring. To be professional, remain effective and relatively sane, you must re-energize internal personal batteries. Relying on our “Fair Family” for support not only at fair time but throughout the year. Sharing our families with the thousands of fairgoers is a special relationship. Taking care of YOU as we pace ourselves from opening day to the closing hour – we have to balance our own act. We will share a few laughs and you will have to think a little. Together we can pull it off! Bill Ogg will bring us through the swamp and the bed of roses as we share our passion of fairs.
